UNITED LABORERS VOID
FEDERAL JUDGE HOLDS

Greenwood, N. C., Sept. 8.—Federal Judge J. W. Smith, in a decision rendered today, has voided the National Labor Relations Board's order requiring the United Laborers of America to accept a new contract with the employer. The court held that the board's order was an interference with the right of the employer to hire and fire at will.

In this case, the United Laborers of America, a union of 1,000 members, had been ordered by the National Labor Relations Board to accept a new contract with the employer, a textile mill. The union refused to do so, and the board ordered it to do so. The court held that the board's order was an interference with the right of the employer to hire and fire at will.

The court's decision is a significant one, as it is the first time that the National Labor Relations Board's order has been voided. It is a blow to the board's authority and to the labor movement.
